Hancock, Bay St. Louis students, teachers back in classrooms today

Bay school board members, teachers bury the hatchet

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Bay St. Louis school district students are scheduled to be back in class today after two and a half weeks of "vacation."

Peggy Dutton, teachers' spokesman, said late Wednesday that most of the district's teachers expected to sign their contracts and return them to school officials today.

District school teachers agreed Tuesday night to return to school Wednesday for a workday, after school board president Walter Turcott told teachers their new contracts would include provisions to be paid for work done under the old contract.

The teachers had voted Monday night not to return to the classes unless they were guaranteed this accrued pay.

The two months of pay in question is salary accrued by teachers on a 12-month contract. This pay will be given to teachers during the summer months.

The controversy arose when school board attorney Lucien Gex told the teachers the board could not guarantee to make these payments because of a state statute which states that teachers in breach of a contract cannot be paid for work done prior to the contract breach.

Gex told teachers the board could be personally liable for the money if the teachers were paid, but that board members would do everything possible to see that teachers could be paid this money.

School Superintendent J.D. McCullough announced to the board late Tuesday afternoon that the state attorney general had ruled that the teachers could be paid the accrued salaries.

The two months' pay was the final stumbling block holding the teachers from returning to class following urging by the Mississippi Association of Educators for teachers to go back to school.

In addition to the salary raise ($4,400 over three years) which was passed into law this week by the state legislature, the Bay St. Louis school district teachers feel they have made great strides in relieving communication problems between the board and the faculty members.

Turcott also reported to teachers gathered at the St. Rose work center Tuesday night that the board had passed a motion to have a "rap session" with the teachers in April.

He promised teachers that the lines of communication between the board and the faculty would open from this time and that the board will meet with teachers monthly or even bimonthly if needed.

Following Turcott's announcements, he received a standing ovation from many of the teachers attending.

Teachers picked up new contracts yesterday during the workday.

Teacher spokesman Peggy Dutton said Tuesday they anticipated no problems with the contracts which they had already seen.

Dutton, who also addressed the board Monday night at the meeting, said the teachers hoped that the end result of the strike would be a better school system.

At the Monday night meeting, board members were presented with an agreement teachers wanted signed promising amnesty.

Gex recommended that the board not sign the agreement which was between the board members and the MAE because teachers' contracts

Federal funds may be available for Hancock beach replenishment

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

There may be federal interest in restoring the beach in Hancock County, an engineer from the coastal branch Corps of Engineers told members of the county technical advisory committee for the sandbeach improvements project.

Engineer Ed Martin met with the committee early this week and said that the corps had been doing a study of the needs of the three coastal counties for the past year and a half.

The corps has been specifically studying the water supplies of the counties, he said.

"I have recommended that the Corps of Engineers do a full scale survey in Hancock County," he said.

"In addition to a water supply plan, I requested a plan for restoring the beach," Martin said.

According to a preliminary study, Martin said the corps may be able to compute enough benefits to justify putting the sand back on the beach.

He added that there is some justification for the sand replenishment in the preservation of the seawall and road but the added benefits of the recreational value will aid in justifying the need restoring the beach.

Jeff Taylor of Gulf Regional Planning Commission said every possible value of restoring the beach will be used by the corps to justify their participation.

"Anything the county can do will also be included in the cost benefit formula and can assist in the corps justifying the need to replenish the beach," Taylor added.

"We just need to show the beach is needed for more than just shore protection," Martin said.

Although Martin said he should know within six to eight weeks if the corps would be able to do the study, he emphasized that if the funds became available to restore the beach, it could take several years.

"Just knowing that the Corps of Engineers have an interest in the helping out puts a good positive light on the project," Taylor said.

TEACHERS APPROVAL—Teachers from the Hancock County School District applaud Monday night as spokesperson Charlotte Johnson, standing, requests that the school board place no penalties on school employees who participated in strike activities. The board decided that striking teachers would be docked one day's pay for each day missed due to the strike. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette) considered to be on strike until March 18, when extended spring holidays ended.

The board replaced its resolution calling for new contracts with one allowing teachers to continue working on their original contracts, but the resolution specified that teachers will lose one day's pay for each day of participation in the strike.

Pay will not be docked for those days when the teachers picketed in front of the schools during spring holidays.

According to Gex, the board changed its action because he obtained new information Tuesday morning during a conference call with N.F. Smith, director of the State Department of Education's "about a week" for the board to consider new contracts on an individual basis.

In addition, the board would have been obligated to pay off each of the original contracts.

This factor could have caused problems with accrued pay for teachers on 12-month contracts, Gex added.

Teacher spokesperson Charlotte Johnson said after the meeting that teachers were satisfied with the contract arrangement.

"We may not have won in Jackson but we won public support. That support has always been there but it was just shown to us during the work stoppage. We know now that the people are behind us," Johnson said.

"As teachers, we realize we took

Correction

The Antique Arcade on South Second Street, Bay St. Louis, will host a reception especially for persons participating in the Bay-Waveland Garden Club segment of the Mississippi Coast Council of Garden Clubs Spring Pilgrimage Thursday, Mar. 28.

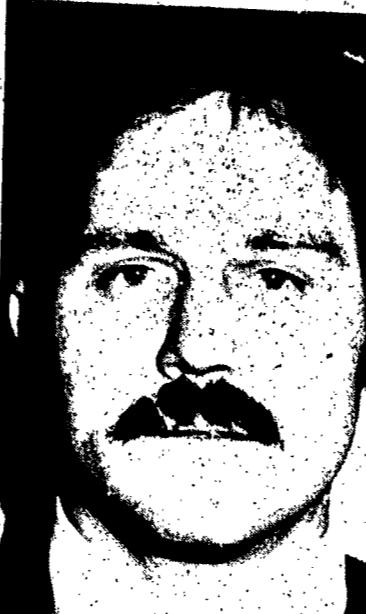

The Arcade building and the reception were inadvertently listed in Sunday's edition of The Sea Coast Echo as an official stop on the Bay-Waveland tour, but actually have no official connection with the Pilgrimage or the Bay-Waveland Tour.

Council rules prevent any commercial establishments from being officially included on the tours.

Kelvin Schulz enters Bay mayor's race

KELVIN SCHULZ

Bay St. Louis businessman Kelvin Schulz has announced he is a candidate for mayor of Bay St. Louis in the May 14 primary.

Schulz, a real estate broker, also operates the Big "E" Grocery and Seafood.

He resides at 600 S. Beach Blvd. with his wife, Emily and two daughters, Alicia Mary, age 4, and Alison Marie, age 16 months.

His wife is the former Emily Mollere. She is nursing supervisor of Bay St. Louis Unicare-Home Health Corporation. She is a registered nurse with a bachelor of science degree in nursing from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Schulz graduated from J.F. Kennedy High School, New Orleans. He studied industrial technology at University of Southwestern Louisiana, Lafayette, and completed coursework in management and real estate at University of Southern Mississippi.

He participated in a number of real estate seminars and is a graduate of the Realtor Institute.

He is a charter member of the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, and the Exchange Club.

Schulz also holds membership in Waveland Civic Association, Gulfport Board of Realtors, and the Krewe of Triton.

As a mayoral candidate, Schulz said he has received encouragement from many sources.

In a statement to supporters, he said, "It's time we returned City Hall to the taxpayers. We need a dollar's worth of value for a tax dollar spent, and we're not getting it."

Schulz says he is basing a grass roots campaign on personal honesty and integrity, and experience in the private sector that gives him a working knowledge of city services and the need to stretch tax dollars.

A time to look to our future

There are many happy people today in the state of Mississippi with all public schools open.

Yesterday or last week cannot be recalled to be redone, what has happened is now history.

Many blunders appeared to have been made by parties involved in the teachers strike.

All ill feelings now have to be forgotten and the task of educating our children has to take priority.

There have been some tense moments by the governor, legislators, school superintendents, school boards, school board attorneys, school administrators, teachers, police, parents and students, now they have to be a thing of the past.

Mississippi has the distinction of being 50th in per capita income, and this covers the salaries for many professions skilled and unskilled.

Really instead of getting better in ratings, the state has dropped back two slots because we were 48th at one time. Making Alaska and Hawaii a state dropped Mississippi to 50th in rankings.

The Educational Reform Act passed by the legislature in 1982 is one of the best weapons Mississippi has to get on the right track and start moving up the ladder of standings.

The implementation of the Educational Reform Act throughout school systems in the state of Mississippi now is needed as soon as possible.

The economy of the state needs a boost and this can be done by the landing of new industries.

Many industries today need highly trained technical employees, and the basis for these educational requirements have to be taught from kindergarten through college.

One must remember too, the youth of today will be our leaders of tomorrow, so let's give them the very best in education.

Housekeeping

Weekly Summary

from

Mississippi House of Representatives

By Andrew Reese
House Information Officer

Additional money for housing loans to Mississippi residents would come available under one of many bills approved recently by the Mississippi House of Representatives in a drive toward final adjournment of the 1985 legislative session.

The bill, especially aimed at helping middle-income and low-income families, would authorize another $200 million in bonds for housing loan program begun in 1980. Backers say the program has been a boost for thousands of people seeking loans for purchasing homes and an economic stimulus for the state's meebuilding industry.

Under the program, tax-exempt mortgage revenue bonds are issued to provide financing for home purchases by people who qualify for the loans. The money is made available to banks and savings institutions which pass along interest savings to borrowers.

A similar bill also was approved in the 1984 legislative session. The measure also has been passed by the Mississippi Senate, but the House and Senate still must iron out some differences on the bill before sending it to the governor.

The housing loan bill was among several major bills winning House passage last week as the deadline expired for floor action on bills previously passed by the opposite chamber. Lawmakers faced another crucial deadline this week for passage of appropriations and revenue bills from the opposite chamber.

The deadlines are designed to expedite handling of bills and resolutions in an orderly, efficient way and help make sure the 90-day session ends as planned by April 7. The session could be extended if absolutely necessary but an extension requires a two-thirds majority vote in the House and Senate.

Efforts to come up with a satisfactory solution to the teacher pay controversy continued to draw widespread attention last week, especially in view of growing concern over teacher strikes in several districts. A compromise teacher pay-revenue bill was prepared by a House-Senate conference committee assigned to try to resolve differences between the two chambers.

There have been strong indications Gov. Bill Allain may veto any teacher pay bill that involves new taxes, leaving the final outcome of the pending legislation uncertain.

Meanwhile, the House set a brisk pace in acting on a variety of other bills dealing with such important areas as soil and water conservation, availability of insurance, disposal of industrial wastes, community hospitals, and domestic violence.

The House also voted for the second time this year to repeal the state's Sunday Blue Laws, leaving it up to local governing officials to deal with regulation of Sunday sales on a strictly local basis: The bill was a substitute for a Senate-passed measure that would have revamped the present Blue Laws and establish a procedure for people to vote themselves out from under the statewide laws in their own areas.

The House and Senate must agree on a final version of the legislation before releasing it to the governor.

Other measures approved by the House last week included proposals to allow the Research and Development Center establish business "incubation" centers to assist new firms; authorize a soil and water conservation cost-share program under the administration of the Mississippi Soil and Water Conservation Commission; expand the scope of the Mississippi Underwriters Association, now limited to the Gulf Coast region, to other areas of the state to help make sure people in rural areas can obtain adequate insurance for homes; and increase marriage license fees from $6 to $20 to help fund domestic violence shelters.

The state Pollution Control Permit Board would be prohibited from allowing establishment of a commercial hazardous waste landfill in Mississippi under another House-passed bill. The moratorium would remain in effect until the Environmental Protection Agency determines that each type waste to be placed in the proposed landfill is suitable for land disposal.

Numerous House-passed bills were approved last week by the state Senate, including a measure that would enable more than 17,000 additional recipients—mostly children and married pregnant women—to become eligible for Medicaid benefits. The Senate also endorsed a House measure providing for regulation of ground water supplies in the state.

House members took time from their busy work-schedule to participate last week in a Legislative Walk on behalf of the March of Dimes and recognize four-year-old Russell Dickerson of Quitman as Mississippi's 1985 March of Dimes Poster Child.

State Secretary slates seminar

Secretary of State Dick Molpus reports that on March 28 and 29 the Election Commissioners' Association of Mississippi, in conjunction with his office, will host a convention/seminar to be held at the Sheraton Regency Hotel in Jackson.

"Election commissioners, circuit clerks, and other election officials are encouraged to attend this important educational function," Molpus said.

Guest speakers will include Governor Bill Allain, Molpus, Attorney General Edwin L. Pittman, Chancery Court Judge Sebe Dale, and Assistant U.S. Attorney Daniel Lynn.

Molpus stated that, "While the basic course of study will again be offered this year, an advanced course will be available for the first time." A question and answer session will also be included on the agenda.

Cost of the two-day event will be $25. Attendance is not limited to members of the Election Commissioners' Association. Registration forms and additional information can be obtained by contacting Nancy Sulser of the Secretary of State's office at 359-1350.

Humanities help confront business issues today

Editor's note: The following article by Charles Sewell, chairman of the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities and chief executive officer of Deposit Guaranty Mortgage Company, is the result of a grant to the Mississippi Press Association by the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities.

The Problem for Business

By Charles Sewell

The humanities are vital for the basic issue confronting business today—how to protect the free enterprise system in the light of all the changes going on in the world around us.

The importance of the humanities is evident in the way they help create an appreciation for the human function and a willingness to explore new and untested opportunities.

For all its faults, free enterprise is still the most creative economic force in the world. It has made possible an environment in which social-cultural-political progress has been achieved for a large part of the world's population.

Nonetheless, businessmen must manage their enterprises in such a way that they generate a profit, create a return on investment for their stockholders—but also recognize other responsibilities.

In other words, there is more than one bottom line for business. Men and women who shape business policy now and in the years ahead have to have a new kind of sensitivity—a new awareness of what is fair, just and legitimate and still be able to maintain the integrity of our economic system and our political system.

Obviously, technical competence is necessary early in a manager's career, but if an individual is to progress, he needs more than technical competence.

In a practical sense, the humanities help prepare people for business careers in a useful way. They help create a flexible but orderly way of looking at issues and problems. Indeed, strong evidence exists that a background in the humanities pays off in a business career.

During nearly 30 years, AT&T conducted a series of studies on career advancement of people with technical and non-technical backgrounds. Bob Beck, a vice president of that firm, recently cited four principle factors affecting advancement in management:

—Administrative skills, particularly planning, organization and decision making.

—Interpersonal skills, including face-to-face leadership, oral communication and the ability to make a personal impact.

—Intellectual ability, particularly as displayed in verbal and quantitative skills.

—Motivation for advancement and success.

Studies indicate that humanities/social science majors are more interested in leadership and in creating relationships with a larger number and a wider variety of people. The data suggest that liberal arts graduates are more open-minded, more flexible and adaptable, and better able to deal with ambiguity and change.

The last is the principal characteristic of today's high-tech world.

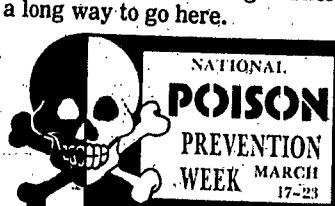

In my own mind, a basic curriculum for a bachelor's degree would include courses in literature, composition, history, ethics and economics. On that foundation more specific technical courses should be required during the junior and senior years.

The courses in the humanities and in a student's major would be graduated, not on rote knowledge, but on a student's ability to communicate his understanding of the subject matter in writing and orally. Ideally, he should have at least one three-month summer internship in his professional field.

The senior year should include a well-researched paper on a relevant subject. At some point, the student should be required to study a foreign language—not in lieu of, but in addition to computer language.

Such an education would prepare one for being more than economically successful. It would provide balance. The student would have a set of values that recognizes all the different dimensions of self-image, of family and friends, of art and beauty, and of loyalty and commitment.

Perhaps that's the ultimate in life. Perhaps that is the value of the humanities: they round out one's total life, not just one's career.

Dobbins said, "We can't think of anything that is more needed in the world today than faith in God and the Bible. We are confident the program will help all in attendance to display this quality better within the family, the community, and the nation."

Dobbins said approximately 3,500 delegates are anticipated at the Biloxi assembly.

"The Bible is a reliable book on which to build a stable faith," Dobbins continued.

"The Bible is a book of faith. It provides knowledge and imparts wisdom. More than that, it touches hearts and motivates persons to bring their lives into harmony with God's ways and to serve Him."

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, MARCH 21, 1985-5A

GIVE YOUR BODY A CAR'S CHANCE

Because the body is such a wonderful self-sustaining machine which heals its own wounds, we are prone to let it run along as best it can until something doesn't feel right. Car accidents occur every day. There are turn-overs and collisions which can fail to have the frame straightened, the dents removed and everything lined up again. But the occupant, unless he has broken bones, merely painful, will not feel the damage and let his frame go regardless of how badly it may have been twisted out of shape. The body reacts just like any piece of machinery when left machine is still. Wear on certain parts is greater and the life of your machine is shorter. Your doctor of Chiropractic is your body mechanic, a spine specialist, an auto-engineer. See him for advice as to how to take the best care of your machine (body) and go to him when your body frame (spine) needs attention.

an intriguing mixture of historical tales and culinary delights, with charming sketches of a number of towns and other buildings, some dating from the days before the War between the States—the Civil War—but from the turn of the century that's what's in store for you if you get a copy of "Home Cooking" subtitled "Recipes, Homes and Gads of St. Tammany Parish,"

Published by the St. Tammany Historical Society, the cookbook encompasses many hitherto unpublished recipes of many good cooks, along with drawings of the homes and a bit of the historical background of each. The architectural styles are varied, as are the recipes.

It's a labor of love—and the result of a lot of hours at the kitchen stove, as well as at the drawing board, and a treasure to own—and to use. The book is dedicated to the late Dr. Harvey Colvin Jr., a former president of the Historical Society.

It's a delightful tour back into yesterdays of the early settlements along the bayous and rivers running to Lake Pontchartrain, and, of course, the earliest known settlers of course—the Indians.

It's a story that the Tammany comes from Tammany, Delaware chief of the 17th century, who was a friend to the early colonists—and many of the names of the streams and such in the area derive from the Indians.

Many of my earliest memories are visits to Louisville, Mandeville, New Orleans and other places in the famed Ozone Belt, for when we were young on the Mississippi, we were ensconced for the summer months on the north shore of Lake Pontchartrain, just across from our home town of New Orleans.

And many of the famous landmarks are still there—the gumbo at Bechac's restaurant is just as tasty as it was in my younger days—the air is still invigorating, so that I can almost hear my father telling us to "breathe that good fresh country air"—what would he have to say of my pollution today?

I've truly been cooking up a storm overtime, trying out and entering a number of the recipes in "Home Cooking" here's a parting special. It's:

BECHAC'S BLUE CHEESE DRESSING

24 oz. blue cheese
1 quart salad oil
1/4 can anchovies

Slightly crumble the cheese and add the oil. Mix in the finely chopped anchovies and anchovy oil. Place the mixture in a container and refrigerate—and watch it disappear, especially if I'm around.

If you want a copy, and can't find it in the store, and can't find the Region I and Region VI science fairs scheduled for March 27 and 29 at the University of Southern Mississippi will be run on an open basis.

Both Necaise were in the second vehicle which stopped behind Webre and subsequently was struck from behind by a vehicle driven by Oswald Moran, Route 1, Picayune. The Necaise vehicle was knocked into the Webre car.

Mississippi State Trooper Tony Greer said no citations have been issued, but the accident is still under investigation.

Seafood Tips

By Bonnie May Titus

QUESTION:

Dear Bonnie,

How long can I keep crawfish after they are boiled? Why do they sometimes get a greasy coating on the shell and smell unpleasant after being stored in the refrigerator overnight (even though they are still boiled.)

Yet the meat still tastes good.

—Reader, Linda Meek

ANSWER:

Dear Linda,

I have talked to our crawfish supplier and am told that crawfish that are boiled with soybeans often get this grease on the shell and smell bad. The meat is still good. They say this does not happen to ones that are not boiled with soybeans.

Store crawfish in the refrigerator with a paper underneath to catch drippings. Don't allow them to sit in their own juice & seasonings. If they are greasy next day, you may wash them in cold water to eliminate greasy smell & they are good to eat (not spoiled) after boiling crawfish are usually good until fourth day. Send recipe to "Bonnie" 1335 E.

City in final stages of securing funds for utility construction

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Bay St. Louis Councilmen Tuesday passed six resolutions—final step in the sale of $1.5 million bonds for utility construction in the annexed area.

Included among the resolutions for the bonds was acceptance of terms and conditions; authorization of sale and authorization for issuance of a $600,000 bond and a $900,000 bond to the Farmers' Home Administration.

The city has already issued a $1 million bond jointly to Merchants Bank and Trust Company and Hancock Bank to be used in the construction project.

The project which includes providing sewage for the greater portion of the annexed area and some water. Included in the area to have utility improvements are portions of Bouslog and Turner Streets from US-90 to Eight Street; Bismark from Suebe to Bouslog Street; Eight Street from Suebe to the city limits; and Pontiac, Mercury, Buick, Lincoln and Cadillac Drives.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett said bids for the work are expected to be accepted in the first week in May.

"We are expecting a lot of bids because so many contractors are short of work at this time," he added.

"Of course, the lower the bids the more work we will be able to get done," Bennett said.

After the bid is awarded the contractor has 90 days to begin work and the contract will run for 18 to 24 months, he said.

Bennett said the engineer of record for the project, Louis Eaton of Jackson, had told the city that similar projects with the same time frame have actually been completed in nine months.

"We hope we will be able to award the bid to a contractor who will come in and work as quickly," Bennett said.

One reason work on this project is being rushed is because of a default judgement against the city in a $200 million lawsuit issued Feb. 20 by Chancellor John S. Morris.

The suit had been filed by residents of the area who claimed they had been promised city utilities since 1967.

These residents later told the city that what they really wanted was a timetable for the installation of utilities in their area.

Bennett and City Clerk Edward Favre will exchange the bonds for

On telephone credit cards

If you have a telephone credit card, you now have the same protection against fraudulent use that you have with your other credit cards. Effective Dec. 31, 1984, all credit cards are subject to the provisions of the Truth-in-Lending Act that limits cardholder liability for unauthorized use to $50.

In addition, the amendment to the Truth-in-Lending Act prohibits companies from issuing telephone credit cards that have not been requested. Previously telephone cards had been exempt from these regulations.

The number of telephone credit cards issued by AT&T Communications, local Bell operating companies and the independent telecommunications companies was approximately 50 million as of January 1984. According to the Federal Reserve Board, the number of outstanding cards has increased substantially since January as a result of AT&T's card distribution.

Point of Law

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some legal rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your rights.)

Q: I purchased a new car and financed it with a finance company. I say that I am not delinquent and they say I am three notes behind. A man from the finance company came to my house and told me I had no choice but to give him the car. What are my rights?

A: You have a right to refuse to relinquish possession of your car unless there is a court order requiring you to do so.

If the finance company does take you to court and you are found to be in the wrong and that you owe the three notes, then you may be responsible for court costs and possibly the finance company's attorney's fees.

In either event, you should contact your attorney before you relinquish possession of your property.

Q: My insurance agent told me that I have $10,000 in "uninsured motorist coverage". What does that term mean?

A: Mississippi law requires every automobile liability insurance policy to contain a clause which will pay the insured for bodily injury or death from the owner and operator of an uninsured motor vehicle unless you, the insured, specifically state in writing that you do not want uninsured motorist coverage.

Uninsured motorist coverage protects you from a negligent driver of an automobile who does not have automobile liability insurance.

Patricia Lott, leader in her own right

While her husband has emerged as one of America's most respected lawmakers, Patricia (Tricia) Thompson Lott of Pascagoula has established a reputation as a leader in her own right through her involvement in the Republican Congressional Wives Club and civic organizations, both in Washington, D.C. and Mississippi.

At the same time, she has managed a successful balance as a homemaker and career woman.

Mrs. Lott recently was elected president of the Republican Congressional Wives Club, an organization on Capitol Hill which she describes as a "necessary" support group.

"This is one of the clubs I enjoy most and feel is the most important of any in which I am involved," the wife of seven-term Congressman Trent Lott said. "Every spouse of a member of Congress faces the same problems and challenges in disrupting their lives in their hometowns and moving to Washington."

"Particularly for those of us from the South who are accustomed to being able to drop in on our friends for a cup of coffee, it's hard to adjust to maintaining friendships with persons who live 30 or 45 minutes away from you in Washington."

That's where the Congressional Wives Club comes in. Congressional wives find their best friends within this organization.

"If you choose not to get to know your fellow congressional wives and not to join the club, I think you'll be pretty lonesome in Washington," she said.

But what about congressional spouses who are not "wives"? There are 22 congresswomen in the U.S. House of Representatives, evenly split along party lines.

One of the newest is Mrs. Jan Myers, a Republican from Overland Park, Kansas. Her husband "Dutch" has attended two meetings of the group so far and could become a regular.

In addition to the increasing number of women being elected to the Congress and the resultant increase in husbands as congressional spouses, Mrs. Lott has observed other trends in the organization since she came to Washington.

"The wives are getting younger and younger, and more politically involved," she said. "And, it used to be that very few wives worked."

Now we have lawyers, authors, convention managers, airline stewardesses, travel agents and television news commentators."

The president herself is a part-time dental hygienist and models on a freelance basis for some of the Washington Metro area's most exclusive dress shops.

Along with her duties in that organization, Mrs. Lott also is president of the International Club III in Washington, an organization which draws its membership from new arrivals to the nation's capital who work in the administration, the diplomatic corps, Congress and the news media.

The exclusive membership club, established in 1953, invites only 20 new members each year to join its ranks. Its purpose is social—the meeting and exchanging of cultures.

"It's really a challenge to preside over such an international group," Mrs. Lott said. "Some members literally speak no English. We have members from East Germany, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Japan, Poland and Chile."

"I've learned to speak a few words in several of the languages, but at the meetings, for the most part, we depend on our diplomatic members as translators."

Each summer the International Club holds a pot-luck dinner for the families of the members.

"It's a great event, particularly for the children to come together, and it's really fun to sample home-cooked dishes from all over the world," Mrs. Lott said.

The club's regular meetings are usually held in the various embassies or in the diplomatic rooms of the State Department.

Mrs. Lott's activities, however, are not limited to the Washington, D.C. area. This year she is the organizer of the Mississippi Women's Luncheon Club annual fashion show and tea to benefit nursing scholarships for the University of Mississippi Medical Center. The event features Congressional wives and daughters as models.

The Washington Dossier, a slick Washington monthly magazine, and the "style" section of The Washington Post are among the publications which have taken note of Tricia Lott's Washington "Agency."

ASCS Report

AFIDA REQUIREMENT

The Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act requires all foreign owners of U.S. agricultural land to report their holdings, acquisitions, dispositions, leases of 10 years or more, and landuse changes to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office.

"This reporting requirement is still in effect," said Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office.

"Foreigners who have bought or sold agricultural land in the county are reminded to report the transactions to our office within 90 days," he added.

ASCS offices across the nation are charged with the responsibility of keeping track of how much agricultural land is owned or controlled by foreign individuals or interests.

Foreign investors have reported owning about 13.7 million acres of agricultural land in the United States.

For reporting purposes, agricultural land is defined as any tract of more than 10 acres now in agricultural, forestry, or timber production. This includes land in agricultural use when purchased, as well as land later converted to agricultural use.

Gennin said foreigners who own or have an interest in 10 acres or less do not need to report unless annual proceeds from the sale of agricultural products grown on these acres exceed $1,000. "Interest" means any right, title, or legal share of ownership in agricultural land, such as a partnership, trusts, estates, or shares in a corporation that owns agricultural land."

Under the AFIDA, land owned by foreigners before February 1979 should have been reported by August 1979. Foreigners who have acquired or disposed of agricultural land since that time should have reported the transaction to ASCS within 90 days. Those who fail to report or who are late in reporting face possible fines.

"Individuals or companies that specialize in land holding, land transfers, or management services should contact our office for AFIDA details," the ASCS official said.

The more people that get involved in helping with the project, the better the chances are of getting the project completed, he said.

Taylor added that chances of the Bayou Cadet project getting federal assistance funds will be enhanced since it is a part of the master plan for shorefront improvements.

Taylor also said part of problem in Hancock County is that money collected for shorefront improvements had be obligated to other needed projects.

"We hope that with the development of the master plan, when the funds become unobligated the beach improvements will be at the top of the priority list," he said.

Taylor added that these funds cannot be used to construct recreational facilities including restrooms or cabanas.

He also said that the time frame for completing the master plan will be compressed into the next six or seven months.

"We are trying to get the planning completed in time to give officials the opportunity to designate funds for beach improvements for the summer of 1986," Taylor said.

Gex also cited other legal reasons why he had recommended that the agreement not be signed.

Also at the Monday night meeting a group of concerned parents addressed the board concerning what would happen to the students if the strike continued.

The board agreed to work with parents and to continue their efforts to expedite the opening of school.

List of Audit Items

The Jackson District of the Internal Revenue Service has compiled a list of the items most often disallowed during the examination of tax returns. Taxpayers should give special attention to the following list when preparing their 1984 tax return:

—Exemptions. Taxpayers claiming an exemption for one or more individuals for which they did not provide more than half their total support during the tax year. This is especially true of separated or divorced parents.

—Earned Income Credit. Numerous individuals claim this credit when they are not the Head of Household and have not provided more than half of the cost of maintaining a household for a dependent child.

—Head of Household Filing Status. Many taxpayers claim this filing status when they did not provide more than half the cost of keeping up a home that was the principal home all year for a child that lived with the taxpayer.

—Employee Business Expense. Inadequate records is the most common cause for disallowing employee business expenses.

—Understatement of Income. This includes leaving off wages, salaries, or tips paid to the taxpayer by an employer, as well as interest, dividends, and other compensation by non-employers.

—Office in the Home. This item can only be deducted when the area of the house being claimed is used exclusively for business.

—Base Rate for Telephone. Even though the employer may occasionally call the taxpayer, this is not an eligible deduction if the telephone is the principally used personal telephone for the family.

—Education Expense. This item cannot be claimed if it qualifies the taxpayer for a new trade or business. It can only be claimed if it is required to maintain or improve the taxpayer's skills in his or her current business or profession.

The Internal Revenue Service has free publications covering these and other subjects. Instructions for ordering the publications are contained in the package mailed to taxpayers.

Interim board named for proposed school

BY DENA BISNETTE

A proposed new elementary school, Diamondhead Academy, now has an interim school board.

Board officers, who were selected last Thursday, include Don Benge, president, and Barbara Molaison, secretary. Additional officers have not yet been selected, according to board member and spokesperson Bonnie King.

Board members include King, Mary Goert, Diane Bennett, Jackie Toca, George Kollasch and Peggy Ladner.

The board also includes Holcomb Hector, who acts as liaison between the board and Purcell Corporation.

Purcell has donated five acres of land for the academy and may play a part in its construction, King explained.

The site for the new school is on Diamondhead Drive East between Olo and Mail streets.

Purcell will also assist with the construction of the school building.

"We have agreed to donate our services at no cost to design and construct the facility. The school is one more entity needed to complete the community and we feel it is very necessary to Diamondhead," Hector said.

The donated services will consist mostly of architectural work and construction supervision, he added.

King said the board is looking for an interim facility because a building will not be ready in time for the 1985-86 school year.

She said it is possible that mobile classroom units will be used. If so, they will be placed on the school site.

The school will originally serve grades one through six. King said 26 students have already pre-registered.

Although no applications for administrators have been received, King said some "impressive applications" have been received from prospective teachers.

"We should be able to provide an education comparable to any of the other private schools in the area," King said.

Although the school will be open to children of any denomination, the idea of establishing Diamondhead Academy originated with a feasibility study by Diamondhead Community Church, King said.

The church, which already operates a kindergarten, did not have the property needed to open an elementary school. However, the study showed that more than 100 elementary school aged children live in the Diamondhead area.

In addition, Annunciation Catholic School in Kiln will close at the end of the current school term, and King said the board hopes some of Annunciation's students will enroll in the academy.

"We will need a lot of community support to get this school going, and we need children," King said, "but I think registering 26 students with absolutely nothing to show indicates what we will be able to do."

She said tuition for the proposed school had been tentatively set at $1,000 for the first student from an individual family, $900 for the second student and $500 for the third student.

Additional information can be obtained from King at 255-1895 or from Denise Thomas at 255-7031.

Rocks back on the roll with 6-3 St. John win

St. Stanislaus baseball team returned to its winning ways with a 6-3 victory of visiting St. John Tuesday afternoon.

Winning pitcher for the Rocks was Mark Logan, who is now 3-0. Logan allowed two earned runs on five hits, and struck out six. Losing pitcher for St. John was Kevin Overlaur 0-1.

The first four innings of the game were scoreless, as SSC left men on base in both the first and third innings before exploding for three runs in the bottom of the fifth on a Mark Logan homerun.

In the first inning, Logan retired the first three batters he faced, striking out Joe Bishop, and causing Pat Yentzen to fly out to second baseman Matt Rosetti and Kevin Overlaur rapped a single to bring Bishop home. Logan then struck out O'Braonan to end the inning with SSC still on top 3-0.

SSC wasted no time in picking up three more runs in the bottom of the sixth as Rosetti was safe on an error by St. John third baseman Norris Hopkins. Mark Logan's fielders choice advanced Artigues to second, but Artigues was tagged out by the second baseman.

In the bottom of the first, Jay Artigues reached first on a throwing error by St. John third baseman Norris Hopkins. Mark Logan's fielders choice advanced Artigues to second, but Artigues was tagged out at third on Mike Weems' grounder.

David Pitalo then walked, and Phil Wittmann's grounder to the shortstop accounted for the third out, with no Rocks crossing the plate to score.

In the second inning, Logan faced four batters as left fielder Louis O'Braonan was hit by a pitch and advanced to second on a wild pitch. Scott Mallette grounded out to the shortstop, accounted for the third out, with no Rocks crossing the plate to score.

Shortstop J.J. Romano's fly to right fielder Jake Welsh ended the inning for St. John.

Overlaur settled down in the second inning to retire three Rocks. Chaw batters in a row as Rosetti flied out to the right fielder and Shabazz and Weems struck out.

In the top of the third, Logan had little trouble with the Rocks. St. John batters he faced with Hopkins struck out, and Charlie Hawkins popped up to center. Mike Weems and Joe Bishop flied out to left fielder Jay Artigues.

In the bottom of the third, SSC staged an attack but could not score. Jake Welsh was hit by Overlaur's pitch, and Jay Artigues followed with a single. With runners at first and second, Mark Logan flied out to center field, and Mike Weems single loaded the bases with one out.

David Pitalo then hit into a fielders choice, forcing Welsh out at homeplate, and Phil Wittmann flied out to the left fielder to end the inning with three men on base.

Logan again retired three St. John batters in order, as Yentzen flied out to Rosetti at second base, Overlaur struck out, and Louis O'Braonan hit a grounder to first baseman Phil Wittmann who tossed to Logan covering the bag at first.

In the bottom of the fourth, SSC was retired in order, as Schruff grounded out to the shortstop, Shabazz grounded out to the third baseman, and Rosetti flied out to the first baseman.

Scott Mallette got things going for St. John in the top of the fifth with the first single of the game off of Logan. A passed ball allowed Mallette to reach second. Logan then went to work and struck out Russell, got J.J. Romano to ground out to Rosetti, advancing Mallette to third base. With two out, Norris Hopkins flied out to Logan on the mound.

SSC gained some momentum in the bottom of the fifth as Jake Welsh led off with a sharp single up the middle.

Jay Artigues then laid down a perfect bunt and both runners were safe at first and second. Mark Logan then hit his second homerun of the season as the ball hit the left field fence and bounded over without being touched by the fielder.

SSC enjoyed a three run lead with no outs.

Mike Weems then struck out, and David Pitalo grounded to the second baseman. Phil Wittmann then delivered a single, and came all the way to third on Louis Schruff's single to the left side of the infield.

SSC scored three runs in the fifth, three runs in the fifth, and two runs in the sixth to win the game of 6-3.

Mark Logan was the winning pitcher for SSC, going all seven innings cher for SSC was Matt Rosetti.

Long Beach picked up a run in the top of the first then leadoff hitter Mike Lawson hit the first pitch to deep left for a stand-up double.

An error by center fielder YaSin Shabazz allowed Don Hammock to reach first safely, and Lawson scored when Bobby Reed grounded to the third baseman.

SSC could not mount a rally in the bottom of the first when Herbert struck out both Mark Logan and Mike Weems.

Long Beach picked up four more runs in the top of the second when Vic Crosby was safe on third baseman Louis Schruff's error.

Jeff White then walked, and Sean Spayne was safe on a fielder's choice. Mike Monson then singled in two runs, followed by Lawson's walk. Lawson advanced to second on a fielder's choice, stole third, and advanced home when Rosetti's pick off got by Schruff. Rosetti then struck out both Herbert and Jeff Thigpen to end the inning with the score Long Beach 5, SSC 0.

Long Beach came back with a single run in the top of the third when both Jeff White and Sean Spayne singled. White eventually scored after taking second on a passed ball, and advancing to third on Spayne's single. Monson then walked, and Rosetti struck out Lawson to end the inning.

The Rocks fought back with a lone run when Schruff walked, and following Rosetti's strike out advanced to third on YaSin Shabazz's single. Jay Argutes grounder to the first baseman scored Schruff, and the Rocks trailed 6-1.

The Rocks rallied for another run in the bottom of the sixth when David Pitalo hit this third single of the game, followed by a single by Phillip Wittmann.

Jake Welsh then tried unsuccessfully to bunt and struck out.

Outdoor show underway at Louisiana Superdome

John McKean, a professional duck and goose hunter from Illinois River Valley will be one of more than a dozen outdoor experts appearing at the sixth annual Louisiana Sportsmen's Show running through Sunday at the Superdome.

Turkey season opens Saturday

TURKEY SEASON OPENS
Mississippi's first wild turkey hunting season gets underway Saturday and extends through April 8.

The second season opens April 1 and closes May 1.

Hunters must have a valid hunting license signed and on their person before going to the woods, according to the Department of Wildlife Conservation in Jackson.

Authorities say that hunting turkeys over bait and/or with dogs, live decoys, or electrically operated calling or sound reproducing devices is prohibited.

Department game biologists say that Mississippi boasts one of the most viable and healthy populations of wild turkeys in the South.

This spring turkey hunting will be permitted on 26 state wildlife management areas and one federal wildlife refuge, Nockubee National Wildlife Refuge. In addition, hunting will be permitted on many national forest lands.

Mississippi residents wanting to turkey hunt must purchase either an all game hunting and fishing license for $13, or a sportsman's license for $25.

Hunting hours for turkey are one-half hour before sunrise until one-half hour after sunset.

The bag limit is one gobbler per day, two per season, but not more than three per license year.

Some think placing horse chestnuts in the water will stupefy the fish.

day, and Sunday with identical scores of 1-1. Saturday, they faced the Blue Demons of Slidell with Day Hays scoring the goal for Dynamite. On Sunday, Dynamite faced Goal Busters, also of Slidell, whose only goal was scored in the first quarter, on a penalty shot which barely made it past Dynamite goalie Susanna Cameron.

Excellent defense kept the Goal Busters scoreless in regular play. Jennifer Carter and Becca Kinney kept the opposition's leading scorer from taking a shot on goal.

A pass from halfback Kristy Heitzmann set up the tying score by center forward Michelle Williams.

MOVE OVER

Although an African hippopotamus is attractive to poachers for its ton of meat, and the ivory in its teeth, the ultimate threat facing hippos is the competition for living space with people. Africa's present human population of 400 million people is projected to reach 2.2 billion before it stops growing.

Elaine's School of Gymnastics Starts Summer Classes

Elaine's School of Gymnastics will start its 14th consecutive summer session beginning Monday, May 6. The school is under the direction of Mrs. Elaine Jaquillard. A full range of gymnastic skills is offered to boys and girls in age groups from 2½ years and up.

The boys and girls are instructed on the balance beam, even and uneven parallel bars, trampoline and floor exercise. There is also work in ballet, jazz and bar, including aerobics. This training gives a child coordination, body strength, agility and total self-confidence. The motto of Miss Elaine's School will always remain, "Gymnastics Builds Confidence."

There is still time for parents to enroll their children for summer classes. Those classes give an excellent opportunity for both experienced and new students to gain gymnastic training and preparing them for the fall classes during the regular school year.

The training consists of a one and one-half hour class one day a week through the end of August.

For more information regarding your child's future, call Elaine at 467-1778.

Point of Law

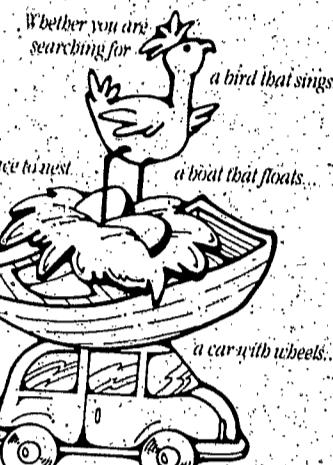

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some legal rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your rights.)

Q: I am represented by an attorney and I am not satisfied with the way I am being represented. Is there anything I can do?

A: The best thing to do is to contact your attorney and in a face-to-face meeting tell the attorney you are not satisfied.

If you are still not satisfied, you may contact the "bar association" in your community. If your local bar association is not helpful, you can contact the Mississippi State Bar Association at 1-800-682-6423.

Bay Catholic slates Jump Rope for Heart

Students from Bay Catholic Elementary will be participating in the Jump Rope for Heart event to be held on Wednesday, Mar. 27 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., according to Jean Ann Thrifflie, chairman.

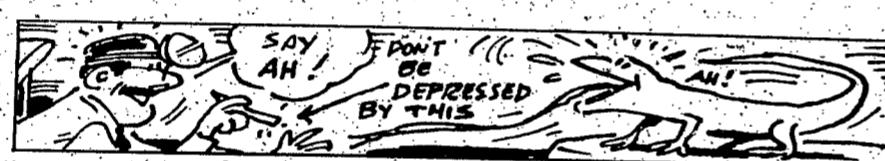

Jump Rope for Heart is a special event conducted by physical education teachers and students in Mississippi who organize the rope jumping event which benefits the American Heart Association in Mississippi. Jump Rope for Heart is held nationwide and is sponsored by the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance (AAHPERD) in conjunction with the American Heart Association.

Mrs. Thrifflie, Jump Rope for Heart coordinator for Bay Catholic School, stated, "By encouraging participation of young people, the project promotes the lifelong benefits of regular exercise and develops positive lifestyle habits. Teamwork can be used to reach a common goal as students and teachers work together."

Over 200 schools in Mississippi are participating this year, which marks the 5th consecutive year the event has been held in the state.

Murphy to take his Detroit cop character to London to help Britain's bobbies fight crime. "Beverly Hills Cop" has done so well at the box office (has grossed over $125 million bucks!) that Paramount's TV division is preparing a television series based on the hit movie. The only problem is the TV series will be without Murphy, and without him, it will be just another half-hour of television.

Another sequel in the planning stage is Twentieth Century Fox's "Jewel of the Nile" which will pick up the adventures of "Romancing the Stone" stars Michael Douglas and Kathleen Turner.

Paul Newman and Jackie Gleason have caught the sequel fever as they prepare to begin production on "Hustler II." Their performances in the original still stand as highlights of their star-studded careers.

You say you want to come to Southern California for the summer and rent a nice little place on the beach? Have I got a deal for you. About a dozen miles from where I sit, Burt Reynolds has a neat little pad in Malibu. Sound like what you're looking for? If so, you had better start saving up for your summertime frolic as I'm told that having dear Burt as your landlord will cost you $12,500 per month. That's not a misprint, that's 12½ grand every 30 days!!!

One last look at how the stars deal with money. For Christmas, Mick Jagger's ex-wife, Bianca, gifted herself with a $1,600 bra. That's right, $800 a cup for the rhinestone-covered undergarment.

Bianca kind of gives new meaning to the old phrase, "family jewels." Oh well, . . . I'm a Rhinestone Cowboy." © 1985 Suburban Features
